CHESTNUT STREET DITCH REVEALS BRICK VAULTS

In the excavating in Chestnut street where the Franklin street brook and sewer is to be moved from the Hop-kins & Allen property to the street, there have been uncovered six large brick vaults which extend under the street. INVESTIGATING TROLLEY ACCIDENT AT GUILFORD Utilities Cimmission Trying to Place Blame—Car Crews Suspended by

Despite the fact the officials of the Shore Line Electric Railroad company have suspended, pending further investigation, the crews of the two cars which figured in an accident near Weat Pond road in Gullford, Wednesday afternoon, in which a dozen or more persons were seriously and painfully hurt, Chief Engineer Trumbull of the Utilities Commission, with members of the commission, is inquiring into the circumstances which caused the accident, says the New Haven Register. The commission is investigating the charge that the forward car carried no tall lights as a warning to the one behind, and also looking closely into the responsibility of the crew of the forward car to determine whether they had the time to flag to the second car to prevent the accident.

to flag to the second car to prevent the accident.

It was one of the most unusual trolle yaccidents in this vicinity in years. The regular Shore Line car leaving New Haven at 4:15 Wednesday afternuon was followed closely by a second car. At West Pond road, not far from Guilford, three deer leaped in front of the first car. Two of the deer cleared the rails. The other was struck by the car and killed. Motorman Harry Morris, of this city, stopped his car and with Herman Darenthal, the conductor, started to pull the deer away from under the cowcatcher. The second in charge of Motorman Joe Kr. Clinton, and Adelbert Cartenteroroow, came along and at this point, crashed into the rear of the first car.

It is understood that the members of the utilities commission are inquir-ing closely into the reason why two cars, heavy as the type of car used on the Shore Line, should be running so closely together, or within the same block, without some adequate precau-tion being taken to protect them. Whether the crew of the forward car was negligent in not sending a flag-man to warn the second car, whether there was neglect of the ordinary block signal precautions or whether even tail lights were not burning on the first car are subjects being investigated by the commissioners.

Chief Engineer Trumbull of New Haven was informed of the accident shortly after it occurred. He left his home in an automobile and was at the scene of the accident before either cars had been disturbed. He obtained some first hand information in which he will base his report to the commis-
